

Ten Little Snyders

Ten little Snyders – Six boys, four girls
And they are all mine
One fell in love, and then there were nine
Nine little Snyders learning to love in a world of hate
One heard a cuckoo clock and then there were eight
Eight little Snyders learning about Heaven
One saw a preacher's daughter and then there were seven
Seven little Snyders cutting up tricks
One found his brother had a sister-in-law then there were six
Six little Snyders happy in their hive
One got picked up in a rain storm then there were five
Five little Snyders make quite a roar
A soldier boy came home and then there were four Four little Snyder's happy as can be
The Marines landed and then there were three Three little Snyders and that's still a few
One brought home a South Dakota girl and then there were two
Two little Snyders having so much fun
One found a girl downtown and then there was one
One little Snyder- home all alone
Married his school chum then there were none
Now Ma and Pa live all alone
In a white house they call all their own
With a dog and a cat and grandchildren by the score
They manage to keep life from being a bore.

Ellen fell in love, Tom heard a cuckoo clock while being married, Dave married preachers daughter, and Jack married her sister. Janet was walking along the road in the rain when Jim drove by. The rest is history. Becky married the soldier boy, Art Cartwright. Ruth the Marine, Jim Whittington. Bill married the South Dakota gal. Larry met Shari in a bar downtown I believe and Mike married Kathie a school chum.

When Tom and Helen got married and not sure who married them. Justice of the Peace I would guess, there was a cuckoo clock in their home and it went Cuckoo at the appropriate time or inappropriate time. Made for a chuckle at the time.
